AGENDA

- Who is Likely to Interview You
- Preparation: Mental/Emotional/Physical
- Interview Types and Considerations
- Interview Questions
- Closing Interviews and Follow-up
- Considerations to Develop Your Interview Strategy and Agenda

ROLES

Important to gain an understanding of the role of the interviewer and role of the candidate:

- Information Sharing
- Evaluating Fit
- Communication and Interaction
- Building Rapport
- Decision-Making Process

SETTING THE TONE

The most successful interviewees share one consistent belief:

They go into an interview more curious to discover whether the opportunity is right for them than to prove they're right for the job.

PREPARING FOR SUCCESS

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

Dr. Albert Merhabian's studies at UCLA based a first impression on the following:

Visual – how you look and act = 55%

Vocal – how you use your voice = 38%

Verbal – what you say =
7%

An initial impression is formed within 3-5 minutes.

MAKING A POSITIVE IMPRESSION

Attitude and Body Language

Greeting:

Direct eye contact

Clear “thank you for seeing me”

Energy

Smile:

A genuine smile helps convey warmth, confidence, and approachability.

Avoid forcing a smile as it can appear insincere.

Eye Contact:

Maintain consistent, natural eye contact

MAKING A POSITIVE IMPRESSION

Posture:

Sit up straight
Relax your shoulders
Avoid slouching
Lean in slightly

Gestures:

Keeps gestures purposeful
Use natural and subtle gestures
to emphasize key points
Use gestures sparingly and with precision

Facial Expressions:

Match expression to your words
Practice natural relaxation

Informational Interview

Result of networking, common contact or event.

Opportunity for employer to meet you
and assess skills and fit
for future opportunities.

Screening Interview

Gives employers a means to narrow the field of applicants by ensuring they meet requirements.

Selection Interview

Determining the right fit for the position and organization.

EXTRA TIPS

TYPICAL INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

- Why did you leave your previous organization?
- Tell me about yourself?
- Why are you interested in us?
- Why should we hire you?
- Greatest strengths/weaknesses?
- What are your salary expectations?
- Greatest accomplishment?

TIPS FOR ANSWERING INTERVIEW QUESTIONS

SAMPLE QUESTIONS TO ASK

- Why is the role vacant?
- What would your expectations be of me in the first 30/60/90 days?
- What are the top priorities of this role?
- What are some of the challenges this department / team is facing?
- What are the top 3 strategies the department and/or organization is focused on executing and why?
- What attracted you to ABC Company?
- What has made you stay at ABC Company?
- What are the next steps in the process?

INTERVIEW REFLECTION

- Write down immediate impressions
- Evaluate your preparation
- Recall key questions
- Assess your communication
- Analyze your questions
- Identify strengths and weaknesses
- Plan your follow-up

THANK-YOU NOTES AFTER THE INTERVIEW

You can increase your chances of being chosen for the next round of interviews – or of being offered the job – by following up professionally. This includes writing a customized thank you note.

The thank you letter should:

- State your appreciation
- Explain what you liked about the role
- Sound enthusiastic about working for the company

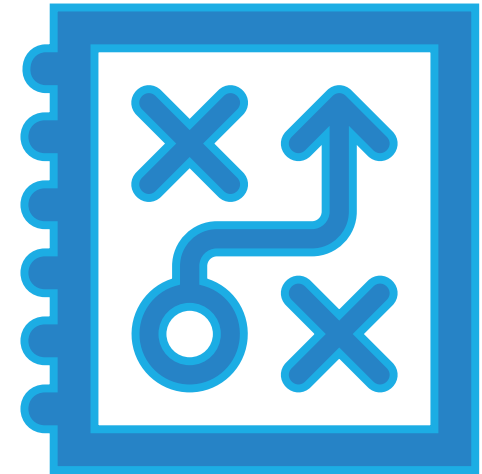

COMMON INTERVIEW MISTAKES

- Winging it/not being prepared
- Telling them what they want to hear
- Not trusting your instincts
- Not tying your experience to their needs
- Negative thoughts

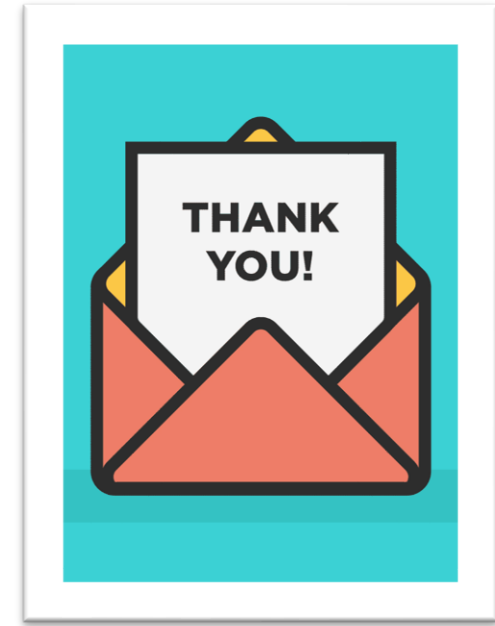

DEFINING YOUR INTERVIEW STRATEGY AND AGENDA

- Have you prepped 6-10 STAR stories that relate to the needs of the business?
- When do you reach out to your references?
- Are there other contacts you have that could further promote you internally?
- Are you ready to negotiate?
- Are you ready to move on?

THANK YOU FOR YOUR TIME!
